3 FAH-1 H-4817 COMPUTATION OF CASH AWARDS

3 FAH-1 H-4817.1 Tangible Benefits

(TL:POH-31; 5-22-1997)

(Uniform State/USAID/USIA)

(Foreign Service, Civil Service, and Foreign Service Nationals)

Tangible benefits are those which may be objectively measured. In assigning a value to any employee contribution, whether of the suggestion, performance, or special act type, every effort shall be made to determine the tangible benefits that may accrue. For example, a savings of 15 minutes in a particular operation, elimination of 10,000 pieces of paper, and extension of life of equipment by six months would be converted into dollars to arrive at the estimated tangible benefits. A cash award is not granted unless the tangible benefits have a value of at least $250. The amount of a cash award will normally be based on the estimated tangible benefits for the first full year of operation in accordance with the following scale, not to exceed $2,000 for other than suggestion cash awards:

Scale for Measurable Benefits

Estimated 1st Year Benefits to Government	Amount of Award
Up to $10,000	10% of benefits
$10,001 - $100,000	$1,000 for the first $10,000 plus 3% of benefits over $10,000
$100,001 or more	$3,700 for the first $100,000 plus .5% of benefits over $100,000

(1) A maximum of $2,000 for other than suggestion cash awards can be paid by a State Area Awards Officer, and in USAID and USIA by the Incentive Awards Committee. For State Only: suggestion cash awards for amounts over $2,000 and up to $10,000 must be approved by the Department Awards Committee. Such awards over $10,000 must be approved by the Office of Personnel Management.

(2) A maximum of $1,000 for other than suggestion cash awards can be paid at the post by State and USAID.

(3) For USAID, the Employee Services Division, Office of Financial Management (M/FM/ESD), pays cash awards to Americans; Foreign Service National employees are paid at the post.

(4) When there are substantial non-recurring costs to install an employee contribution which will be useful for a number of years, and if the amount of the award on the basis of the next first-year benefits would result in an inadequate reward, the award may be based on an average of estimated net benefits over a period of years.

3 FAH-1 H-4817.2 Intangible Benefits

(TL:POH-31; 5-22-1997)

(Uniform State/USAID/USIA)

(Foreign Service, Civil Service, and Foreign Service Nationals)

a. A cash award may also be made when an employee contribution does not lend itself to appraisal on the basis of tangible benefits. The amount of such a cash award is determined on the basis of its value to the agency's operations and importance to the programs affected. There is no substitute for good judgment in determining the amount of a cash award. However, the minimum cash award of $25 is not granted unless the contribution compares favorably with those receiving the minimum cash award for tangible benefits.

b. The criteria used for determining degree of benefit from contributions having intangible benefits are as follows:

(1) Exceptional Benefit: Contribution materially affecting substantial or significant phases of the agency's overall program or of outstanding services in the public interest.

(2) High Benefit: Contribution affecting significant phases of the agency's operations or which involve major changes in methods.

(3) Substantial Benefit: Contribution which is an important improvement affecting minor programs, such as safety contributions which prevent disabling injuries or heavy damage to property, or contributions involving important changes in methods or property.

(4) Moderate Benefits: Contribution limited in scope either as to number of employees or nature of program affected.

c. The degree of intangible benefits from contributions made for cash awards other than for suggestions determine the amount of cash to be awarded to an employee or group of employees, not to exceed $2,000 for an individual.

Extent of Benefits	Amount of Award
Immediate work area	$150 - $500
Several divisions, sections bureaus, or comparable area	$500 - $1,000
Department/Agency	$1,000 - $2,000

d. For State Only: The following scale applies to cash awards for suggestions.
